5. Discussion then turned to the press conference or public committee hearings with Powers as a witness. Senator Saltonstall thought that the Senate Armed Services should have Powers to protect him from a press conference and also to avoid other committees. Senator Byrd strongly endorsed this suggestion. Eventually Senator Russell said this would be a good way to demonstrate publicly the legislative oversight jurisdiction of CIA by Senate Armed Services as opposed to Senator Foreign Relations. Senator Saltonstall also mentioned the agreement that there would be no public comment until a public release by the CIA Subcommittee of House Armed Services and this Subcommittee set for 12 o'clock the next day.

6. There seemed to be complete satisfaction by the members that the case was answered fully in all respects.
